

PHASE 4

Exit & Encourage

If, by Phase 4, Always Going has done its job, the local church should have a tailor-made strategy to train those within its own context and culture to bring the gospel message to their peers. It should also have dedicated church members who are qualified and trained to implement this strategy consistently and repeatedly with anyone who is ready to take their next step into evangelism and disciple-making.

A partnership with Always Going is temporary but is designed to produce lasting change. In Phase 4, the partnership transitions from hands-on to hands-off, but this does not mean it is over.

Continued training, tweaking, and encouragement are key to sustained success.
