Overflow As You Go | The Eight Elements of Everyday Evangelism

Evangelism is not an obligation, it's an overflow—it's who we are, not just what we do. Rather than focusing on gospel-sharing tips and tricks, join us to learn how to recognize God's call, calibrate to God's mission, and overflow into those around you every day.

The Disciple-Making Dad | Learning to Lead your Kids Closer to Christ

Every day is an opportunity to disciple the family God has given us, but with so many important things demanding our attention, how can fathers capture pivotal moments to help their children grow closer to Christ? Join us as we lay out the blueprint to becoming a disciple-making dad.

The Outward-Focused Family | Creating a Culture of Kingdom-Impact in your Family

Discipleship starts at the dinner table. Rather than seeing home simply as a place to relax and recharge, what if we saw everyday interactions as equipping opportunities? What if our kids became Kingdom-builders led by missional moms and disciple-making dads? If you're ready to become an outward-focused family, start here!

From Job to Joy | A Professional Christian's Road to Intimacy with God

Jesus' words, "Apart from me, you can do nothing" are not only an expectation, but an invitation. In a performance-based culture obsessed with image, success, and measurable growth, the line between working for God and joining God's work gets blurred. Join Andrew Steier, a recovering "professional Christian," in discovering the beauty of intimacy with God that leads to true, lasting fruit.

Better Together | Finding Beauty and Blessing in Blended Families

Almost 40% of American families are "blended," including a step-parent, step-child, or both. Hurt, expectations, and fear are just a few tools the enemy uses to separate people from each other and from the Lord. Join Andrew Steier, a step-father of over decade, to learn how God can redeem even the most hopeless situations for His glory and bring beauty from ashes.

Train Up a Child | The Painful Pursuit of Persistent Parents

There are few things more hurtful and confusing than watching your child walk away from the friends, family, and faith of their youth. Feelings of failure and despair make holidays tense and conversations explosive. Join us to discuss practical ways parents can patiently pursue wandering children at any stage of life.

Won't You Be My Neighbor | Reaching a Dark World with the Light of the Gospel

“Love your neighbor as yourself” is not a passive platitude, but an intentional action. Scripture calls us ambassadors of Christ, a royal priesthood, and the light of the world. Rather than simply acknowledging our neighbors, join us as we prepare to actively engage the people in our path with the goodness of the gospel.
